

Dear Herzberg family,

I am incredibly sorry for your loss and can only imagine how bad it must of felt to lose Eric. I have never met him but he sounded like a good guy and someone people could be proud to say they knew. It may have been years since he died but his story continues and will continue to impact people across America for as long as he stays alive in our hearts, so as long as we continue to remember him, his story will remain alive. Although he may be gone now, just remember that he will always be with you, watching over you from a place where war and hardships don't exist.

Sincerely,
Alexis Gerstenfeld
