to the Herzberg family,

Although I have never met you or your family, I feel like I've known Eric already. It's all due to your amazing ability to keep him & his spirit alive. His story inspires me to keep the memory of my loved ones alive & well always. I can tell by the way you & your family talk & describe Eric, that his energy was such a positive light and joy to be around. His story has touched so many lives, and forever changed people for the better. I am incredibly sorry for your loss, but I just know that even in the afterlife Eric has continued to feel your love for him & the love others have shared for him after hearing his story. In the end I know that his passion to help, even those he never knew, is such a gift & he has achieved that goal and more. He is helping everyone that hears his story. Eric's time was cut short but his story, passion, love & ability to continue to change the world for the better, was not. Everything about Eric will stay with us for a hundred lifetimes & so for that reason he is still alive. Living through all of us as we share his story. So thank you, thank you for giving us the chance to know & grow to love Eric as if I've known him my whole life -

Best wishes, Leticia Ramos ♡
